Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 02 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers this morning with thunder likely, drier later.

Today:
Cloudy to start, heavy showers will spread northwards across the region through the morning with thunder likely. It will be becoming drier from the south with sunny intervals through the afternoon and feeling warm too, although cooler than previous days. Maximum temperature 26 deg C (79 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying dry this evening and tonight with cloud cover becoming more extensive overnight. Winds remaining light with fog possible for prone spots. Feeling warm. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Thursday:
A dry day with widespread cloud in the morning dispersing throughout the day to become largely clear by evening. Feeling cool in the west and north, but warmer elsewhere. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Largely fine and dry on Friday and Saturday, however feeling cooler than previous days. Cloudier on Sunday with showers and the occasional sunny interval. Winds remaining light throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.